At the Grand.

"Engaged," one of the best of the many plays written by W. S. Gilbert, was presented at the Grand last night before a thoroughly pleased audience by Miss Kittle Rhodes and her good company. It abounds with quiet bits of humor and these passages were made the most of every time. Another change of programme will be made to-night.

The handsome amusement hall continues to call forth expressions of delight from all who visit it.

Is a night; it was accorded a most enthusiastic reception and strengthened the more than favorable impression it made on its first representation here several years ago. Polk, as Christopher Columbus Bright, was simply perfection and was frequently recalled for his unusually forcible acting. He was most ably supported by Miss Jalla Polk, and the rest of his excellent company.

To-night he repeats "Mixed Pickles": what more need be said—it means fun from first to last.

STRANGERS in the city who dasire to spend a pleasant evening, should visit the Alhambra Rink to-night.

in South America -- Wheeling Man's Death, Mr. Alexander Henry, an old and wellknown resident of the Island, received a letter from Honds, United States of letter from Honds, United States of Columbia, South America, a short time ago, announcing the death and subsequent burisl of his only son, William Henry, on the 20th of last June. Mr. Henry was a master mechanic by trade, and had lived in South America for upwards of twelve years. He married a daughter of Captain Seamon, of the Island, previous to his departure for his new home.

a little over a year ago his wife and three children were compelled by bad health to leave the husband and father and roturn to their old home. In June last, Mrs. Henry ded from the effects of malarial levercontracted in South America. It was known that Mr. Henry had left considerable money and property, but the numerous letters written to Mr. Crane, the United States Consul, on the subject, by Mr. Alex. Henry, were unanswered. Last night two bronged and boarded strangers entered Robinson's saloon on Wester street.

Mr. Alex Henry, were unanswered, last night two broased and bearded strangers entered Robinson's saloon on Water street and asked for the address of Mrs. Henry On being told she was dead they expressed great regret, and said that they had known her and her husband intimately in Honda from where they had just returned, and that they had been two of the dwa hericans who had buried Henry, siter his death from malarial fever.

They were takeg over to Mr. Alexander Henry's residence, where they gave him the incidents of his son's death, and stated that he left property, consisting of mines, a farm and government bonds, aggregating fully $17,000. Henry, they said, had been very popular in the little said, had been very popular in the little circle of Americans at Honda, and had for years occupied a responsible position with the Heurredotte & Bogota Railroad, the only company of any importance in the State.

The U. S. Consul Crane, they stated, was a drunkard and a man upon whom no dependence could be placed, and further added, that after Henry's death he had taken possession of his ostate, and would not likely disgorge unless rigorous cocrive measures could besuccessfully used against him.
